About the Role

Major Accountabilities

- In partnership with Learning Solutions Lead(s), actively participates in learning needs analysis, and collaborates to develop a learning strategy that will meet the business need
- Applies adult learning principles and instructional design methodology to design and develop learning objectives and learning materials to improve competencies, skills, and knowledge
- Expert in creating learning materials for both synchronous and asynchronous learning programs, including but not limited to storyboards, audio scripts, eLearning courses, multimedia animations, slide presentations, facilitator guides and Learning Experience Platform (LXP) smartcards.
- Applies project management principles, processes, and tools to ensure project deadlines are met; clearly and proactively communicates project status with project team members and subject matter experts
- Curates learning solutions within Novartis and from external sources
- Builds and sustains strong relationships with internal and external stakeholders, working collaboratively to achieve common goals. Proactively analyses, updates, and refines course content, as needed
- Keeps current on technology platforms (including AI), and best practices in instructional design; shares new ideas and innovative solutions with instructional designers
- Actively coaches and mentors other instructional designers to drive skill building and expertise among colleagues
- Demonstrates a high level of attention to detail and is responsible for quality control of learning materials and QC support for cross-departmental learning deliverables

Minimum Requirements

- 7+ years' experience with Instructional Design. Expert knowledge of adult learning theory and practice
- Strong understanding of the drug development process including functional interfaces; familiarity with scientific and medical terms and concepts preferred. Expert skill level in design and digital learning technology platforms (e.g., Articulate, Camtasia, Photoshop); skill with AI-driven learning platforms a plus
- Strong project management and organizational skills, with the ability to manage multiple priorities and deadlines
- Excellent written and verbal communication skills, with the ability to interface effectively with team members, subject matter experts and cross-department colleagues
- Bachelor's degree in a relevant field, preferably in science or learning.
- Critical thinking and consultancy skills
- Demonstrated ability to work independently and as part of a team, collaborating with global stakeholders
- Commitment to flexible working hours as global team members in different time zones
